D.A.R.E.

DARE stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education. It is a comprehensive 10 week program taught by uniformed police officers to grade 5 and six students in elementary school. The purpose of the program is not only to inform the students of the dangers of substance abuse and violence, but also to teach them 8 ways to say 'NO' and resist peer pressure to experiment with drugs and alcohol. Classes are interactive and participation on the part of the students is an important element of the program. There is plenty of group work and presentations, which not only gives the students a chance to practice what they have learned in the classroom, but also serves to build their self esteem and belief in themselves. At the end of the 10 weeks, the students come to realize that they CAN successfully resist drugs and live a healthy life. School administrators and parents alike are in favor of the program since it puts a uniformed police officer in the school on a regular basis, and presents a side of the police not often seen by society. Students get to know the officer very well and see them as a person, just like themselves, a person who is there to help and support them. At the end of the course, students participate in a culmination ceremony which recognizes their efforts and affirms their promise to remain drug free.
